This provides students with up to 25 work hours per week during the semesters they are enrolled. Continued participation in the VA Work Study program is based upon the needs of VETS and the student's propensity to help others. Employment is not guaranteed in each successive semester. This educational benefit is paid at $12.80/hr, and is tax free. Applicants must physically reside in Tucson and be able to commute to and from campus. Veterans Education and Transition Services strives to provide the tools and assistance necessary for students to achieve academic success while fostering camaraderie and engagement. VETS is an organization run by veterans, spouses, dependents, and current service members who through their shared experiences endeavor to maintain a dynamic and effective program which is responsive to the needs of our community.

The individual hired to the VETS Social Media VA Work Study position will be self-motivated, knowledgeable about social media trends and platforms, and will follow UAArizona social media practices. This position will be responsible for regular posting on Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, and will maintain the VETS weekly newsletter. This position will fit also into the rest of the VETS VA Work Study program and will work regular shifts at the VETS Center, to include some shifts at the front desk greeting students and assisting with their needs around the center. The person hired for this position will attend VETS and other University functions, and as such must be available for some weekend events over the course of the semester. Preference will be given to those with a background of experience working with social media, especially if that experience includes managing a professional social media account. Familiarity with Canva and Adobe products is also preferred.

The VETS program was built by and continues to be primarily run by students with students in mind.
