

SPRING 2021
DIVERSITY SPEAKER SERIES

FEATURING

ALFREDO J ARTILES

Alfredo J. Artiles is Lee L. Jacks Professor of Education at Stanford University and Honorary Professor at the University of Birmingham (United Kingdom). Dr. Artiles is the Director of the Stanford Center for Opportunity Policy in Education and Director of Research at Stanford's Center for Comparative Studies in Race and Ethnicity (CCSRE). His interdisciplinary scholarship examines the dual nature of disability as an object of protection and a tool of stratification. He aims to understand how responses to disability intersections with race, language, gender and social class advance or hinder educational opportunities for disparate groups of students.

MONDAY, APRIL 26, 2 - 3:30 P.M.

Disrupting the view from nowhere in research on disability-race intersections

REGISTER FOR THE WEBINAR:

<http://bit.ly/alfredo-artiles>

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

College of Education